

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a new vehicle differential that will rotate both axle sections under all conditions. Having positive traction capabilities and still allow variability between axle sections.

4009156-1-1001